Coffin Placed in Cotton Field of Newt Clark.

Newt Clark, a negro farmer on the plantation of Mr. Bill Simmons, about seven miles east from Statesboro, had a rather unusual sensation when a coffin was found in his cotton field last Wednesday afternoon, placed there by unknown persons.

The coffin was first found by Clary's boys, who heard their dog barking at the gruesome find. They reported to their father what they had seen, and he went to investigate. It is related, however, that Newt's bravery also failed, and he sent for a number of white neighbors before an actual exploration was begun.

The box was a home made affair, trimmed with black cloth. How it came in Clary's cotton patch, or how long it had been there, is still a mystery.

The coffin was kept on the place for two or three days, after which it was buried by Mr. Simmons. Clary was a witness in the recent prosecution of a number of white men for whipping a negro man on the same place. One of the white men was convicted and two others pleaded guilty and were fined. Before the case came to trial Clary received an unsigned letter warning him not to testify in the case. It appears probable that the coffin may have some connection with that other incident.

Messrs. Mikell Purchase Farm.

Messrs. J. T. and A. F. Mikell, the latter part of last week, purchased from Mr. John A. Wilson his farm consisting of about 73 acres, lying three miles northwest of Statesboro. The property was bought as an investment, and we understand that the price paid was $3,150.

The sale was made by Fields & Chance. This progressive real estate firm has been making quite a number of deals within the last few weeks, which goes to show that they are men of ability in their line. They have the confidence of all who know them, and their business is growing rapidly.

"The Uptown Church"

is drawing large congregations because it is seeking to supply those things which our people's needs demand. Last Sunday was a great day with us, and folks are being stirred. The pastor in his heart-burning messages is seeking to give to the large congregations which hear him a practical, every-day religion. The Sunday-school is growing and all the interests of the church are looking up. Come next Sunday and hear the pastor on the two important themes, "The Law of Supply and Demand," and "Our Golden Dreams." You will enjoy some special delightful music furnished by Miss Chandler, of Augusta, who is visiting in the city.

If sleepy heads do not want to be kept awake, they had better stay at home; for "The Uptown Church" is where people sit up and listen with eyes wide open.

Connerat Made Fast Time From Savannah to Statesboro

In an attempt to lower the record between Savannah and Augusta, Mr. R. V. Connerat passed through Statesboro at 10:42 Monday morning in his five-passenger Buick going like the wind. Slowing down only slightly to turn around the walnut tree, he shot up North Main street with a whirl of dust behind him, and was out of sight almost before the crowd on the street realized what had come along.

Mr. Connerat's time between Savannah and Statesboro was 1:42, which is just 6 minutes behind the time made by another speed fiend a few days ago. Whether he broke the record to Augusta is not known, but the consensus of opinion of those who saw him pass through Statesboro is that he got there plenty soon enough provided he held his pace from here.

Farm For Sale.

I will sell my place lying on the Ogeechee river, on Bulloch side, five miles from Halcynondale, containing 1,155 acres; daily mail system, good for stock raising, and farming; good house with nine rooms and out-buildings. Can be bought at a bargain.

County Commissioners Have Busy Session Yesterday.

Good roads enthusiasm abounds in Bulloch. No need to call a convention of "boosters" from Savannah, Dublin, Swainsboro, and the four corners of the earth to educate our people on that line; we've got the fever, and it's growing.

The delegations which appeared before the board of county commissioners yesterday, pleading for work in almost every section of the county, was evidence of the growing enthusiasm on that subject. From the Oliver bridge section a delegation of fifteen or more appeared with a plea; another delegation came from the vicinity of Dover; one from the Sinkhole, and another from the Metter district. Of course the board could not grant all the requests at once, but each delegation went away with brighter hopes of receiving aid at an early date.

August Storm Brings Much Damage to Coast Section

The storm which has held this section in its grasp since Sunday, is a mild repetition of a similar visit exactly eighteen years ago. Both these began on Sunday, August 27th, the most memorable being that of 1893.

The storm just past did an immense amount of damage to the cotton crop of this section, and perhaps throughout the entire cotton belt; though it was particularly severe on the coast, and reports from Savannah and Charleston indicate loss of life and much damage to property. At Tybee on Monday the wind reached a velocity of 90 miles an hour, and many cottages were blown down and unroofed. Over 500 people living on the island fled to Savannah. The only casualties reported in that section were of two fishermen drowned at Taylor's creek by the overturning of their boat. Of three men in the boat, only one could swim and he alone escaped.

Telephone and telegraph communication was entirely cut off in both Savannah and Charleston, and in the former city the street cars were tied up for the day Monday. Train service, however, was kept up from Savannah, though Charleston was not so fortunate. Not a train moved to or from that city from 9 o'clock Sunday night until yesterday afternoon.

Engineer Colburn of the Southern Railway was instantly killed in the train master's office of that road in Charleston Sunday night by being hit by a board which was blown from an adjoining building and through the window by which he was standing.

SEWERAGE ELECTION TO BE OCTOBER 11

COMMITTEE WILL ANNOUNCE DETAILS SOON

The people of Statesboro will be called upon to vote on the question of sewerage bonds on Wednesday, October 11th. This date was decided upon by the council at a call meeting held Friday afternoon. At this meeting a committee was appointed to take charge of the entire matter and arrange all the details in connection with the election. This committee will make a detailed announcement within the next few days.

It is understood that the amount of bonds to be voted on will be $60,000, as it is believed that amount will be sufficient to lay all the required mains. The committee having the matter in charge have obtained some data from a number of neighboring towns with regard to the cost of a sewerage system, which information will be given to the public between now and the date of the election.

Carter Twins Celebrate Their 78th Anniversary.

Valdosta, Ga., Aug. 27.—The seventy-eighth anniversary of John A. and James S. Carter, of Echols county, which was celebrated at a double family reunion last Saturday, at the home of the latter, five miles from Statesville, was a memorable event in that section.

The Carter brothers, who are twins, were born in 1833, and have spent their lives in Echols county. They are both remarkable specimens of manhood and so closely resemble each other that people who have known them for years often fail to distinguish one from the other.

John A. Carter is six feet and seven inches in his stocking feet, while his brother, James S., is six feet and six inches. Both of them are broad shouldered and robust, and with a vigor at 78 that men of 50 might well envy. John A. Carter served the Confederacy as a soldier throughout the Civil war, while his brother, Jim, was sheriff of his county. Their wives are both living and were present at the family reunion. A 70-year-old brother of the aged twins, A. J. Carter, of Turnbull, Fla., attended the reunion, together with his children and grandchildren.

More people, men and women, are suffering from kidney and bladder trouble than ever before, and each year more of them turn for quick relief and permanent benefit to Foley's Kidney Remedy, which has proven itself to be one of the most effective remedies for kidney and bladder ailments, that medical science has devised. M. M. Lively.

Those traces gave the clue on which police officials of Decatur and Detroit were asked to look out for the suspects. Their arrests followed quickly, Boggs being arrested Saturday in Decatur and Worley in Detroit Sunday. A telegram sent to Worley from Decatur Sunday, warning him of Boggs' arrest, was intercepted by the police and made his apprehension easy.

The boys admit killing the negro, but claim self-defense; they say that they rode with him and had a dispute about paying the machine hire; that Turner reached for his revolver, and that they killed him with the hammer.

$50.00 Reward. I offer fifty dollars reward for the party or parties with evidence sufficient to convict for marking, killing and stealing my hogs, this 10th day of July, 1911.

WILEY CHAMPIONS SOUTHERN PRODUCT

BUREAU CHIEF PRAISES FOOD VALUE OF COTTON SEED OIL

Washington, D. C., Aug. 29.—Dr. Harvey W. Wiley, chief of the bureau of chemistry of the department of agriculture, who has been put on the grill for alleged activity against certain manufacturers whose business it is to sell food to the public which Dr. Wiley thinks is injurious to the public's health, has consistently championed an industry of great importance to the south in particular and to the people in general.

With one single exception—cotton—the cotton seed is of the greatest importance to the people of the south. It not only affords a sure and lucrative "money crop," but it supplies a human food product which Dr. Wiley thinks of supreme importance and benefit to the public health.

"I have been always an advocate of the use of cotton seed oil as a human food," says Dr. Wiley. "There is one product against which nobody has any objection," and the doctor perhaps had in mind the many problems of pure food with which he is daily confronted and which recently led to determined activity on the part of his enemies to have him shelved.

The newspaper and magazine press of the country has come out firmly in support of Dr. Wiley, and it now looks like the chief advocate of pure foods in general and of cotton seed oil in particular will continue the good work to which he was assigned when the bureau was created.

"I have seen people who have taken cotton seed oil and used it for cooking purposes," said Dr. Wiley in a speech he made in New York a short time ago, "who had a prejudice against it beforehand, but on trial of it that prejudice was removed, and then they continued to use it for cooking purposes. Just so, I believe that the people of this country who are as a rule not very great eaters of oil at the table—not as they should be—could be taught to consume large quantities of this wholesome product."

"The health of the people will be better in this country if they eat more (cotton seed) oil, and you (the cotton seed oil industry) will get a wider market for your product, and you will be a benefactor of the public as well as administering to their needs by teaching them to do this."

These are strong words in the interest of a great southern industry coming from the chief exponent in the United States of the doctrine of pure food.

Cotton seed oil has been tested thoroughly by government pure food experts, who have recommended it for use in the United States navy for salad and cooking purposes.

Loss of Time Means Loss of Pay Kidney trouble and the ills it breeds means lost time and lost pay to many a working man. M. Balent, 1214 Little Panna St., St. Paul, Minn., was so bad from kidney and bladder trouble that he could not work, but he says: "I took Foley's Kidney Pills for only a short time and got entirely well and was soon able to go back to work, and am feeling well and healthier than before." Foley's Kidney Pills are tonic in action, quick in results—a good friend to the working man or woman who suffers from kidney ills. M. M. Lively.

I offer fifty dollars reward for the party or parties with evidence sufficient to convict for marking, killing and stealing my hogs, this 10th day of July, 1911.

WANT LESS COTTON TARE

Secretary of State Knox Writes Interesting Letter to Congressman Brantley of Georgia.

Washington—Thanks to the efforts of Congressman Brantley, the department of state has become interested in securing relief for the cotton industry of the South from the injustice of the present cotton tariff.

Mr. Brantley's activity in the matter is due to the passage by the Georgia legislature of an appeal to the president and congress for relief from the unfair and arbitrary discrimination against the cotton growers in the matter of "tare."

Secretary Knox's letter is of vital importance to every cotton farmer of the South, and his views will be welcomed generally in Georgia.

Secretary Knox says, in part: "Realizing that the statements set forth in the memorial and resolution above referred to point to a trade condition apparently so harmful to the cotton-producing industry as to justify the fullest investigation and effort for its correction, I have the honor to say that the department will neglect no proper means for obtaining the fullest possible information on the subject. Instructions will be sent promptly to consular officers at European ports with a view to ascertaining whether any justification exists in the present practices whereby an arbitrary 'tare' of substantially 10 per cent in excess of actual weight of containers is customarily charged."

"It may be without some decided reform in the American baling methods, that foreign manufacturers of cotton will decline to recognize any claims that might be made in behalf of a more equitable adjustment of 'tare,' or its removal."

Oklahoma Mob Burns Negro.

Purcell, Okla.—While 3,000 men, women and children stood by, shouting their approval, Peter Carter, a negro, who had previously been captured by three members of his own race, and identified as the man who had attacked Mrs. Minnie Spragins, wife of a farmer, was burned to death on a brushpile in the main street of Purcell. Two deputy sheriffs who attempted to rescue the negro from the crowd were overpowered and locked in the courthouse.

New York Larger Than London.

New York—That New York can afford fairly claim to be the largest city in the world is shown by a comparison of the census just completed in London, with the health department estimates of New York's population. The population of the administrative county and city of London is 4,522,628, as compared with 4,388,385, the population of the administrative boroughs of New York City.

Planters Pool Tobacco Crop.

Greensboro, N. C.—Representatives of 30,000 farmers of the bright tobacco belt of Virginia and North Carolina, allied with the Farmers' Educational and Co-operative union, in executive session here, entered into an agreement to pool the 1911 tobacco crop until a price of not less than 15 cents per pound is obtained in any section.

Taft's Subjects on Western Tour.

Beverly, Mass.—President Taft has selected some of the subjects on which he will speak on the Western trip that will begin next month. He told callers that the tariff, peace and arbitration, currency reform, reciprocity and conservation, probably, would form a nucleus for his speaking campaign. He will make addresses on many other subjects, but the topics named would make a sort of "five-point program" which speeches that he deemed less important might be made.

FAIR COTTON CROP

DECLINE IN COTTON CONDITION CHECKED BY FAVORABLE WEATHER.

DAMAGE FROM SHEDDING

Cotton is Beginning to Move Very Freely to the Various Markets.

Memphis, Tenn.—The Commercial Appeal's weekly cotton review says: "The decline in the condition of the cotton plant, which set in several weeks ago, has been checked in the two Carolinas, Georgia and Alabama, or had ceased altogether by reason of more favorable weather, rain having fallen in the Carolinas and dry weather superseeded in the two latter states, and, without more rain, will now open rapidly. A fair crop is assured, and a large acreage even a possibility, despite the deterioration that has been suffered."

In Mississippi, Tennessee, Arkansas and Louisiana excessive rainfall continued during the week, and some of the reports take a very gloomy view of the outlook. The chief damage has resulted from shedding of young fronds by reason of the rapid growth of the stalk, and from boll weevils in the southern part of this valley territory. It is evident, however, that bright weather would very likely reduce present estimates of damage."

In Oklahoma and Texas a period of extreme heat, accompanied by a burning sun and hot winds, caused a quick setback to cotton which had but lately taken on fresh growth from rain. The plant was being forced to an early maturity, but rains toward the close of the week put an end to the condition and held out promise of better returns next week. As most correspondents state, there is yet time to derive benefit from the rains."

"Cotton is moving very freely to market where any pickin gins being done."

Building for the Races.

A bit of information which might have been a pleasure to the delegations of good roads advocates who appeared before the board of county commissioners at their regular meeting last Tuesday, has not heretofore been publicly announced.

Four or five delegations from different sections of the county were present at their own expense pleading with the board for help on their roads. Some, possibly, presented demands that were not so pressing, while others declared that, without help, they would be forced to go ahead as individuals and do work for which they had already paid their taxes. To be sure, the board could not build all the roads of the county at once, and all the pleading delegations were urged to contain themselves with patience until help could be given them. This, of course, was the very proper thing to do.

The interesting information which might have been handed out at that time (but wasn't) is that the road gang of Bulloch county is busily engaged in building a mile of new road on what has come to be known as the automobile road below Brooklet. Therefore, other sections of the county must wait again. The people will also be further interested to learn that this mile of new road now being built is almost parallel with another section of this automobile route which has heretofore received most careful nursing at the hands of our road builders. It is explained that the old road, while in good condition, was crooked, and that in order to have a straight run for the races in November, a mile of new road was needed to be built. It does not matter that the mile and a half of the old road is to be abandoned, nor was it sufficient that this new work could have been postponed for a season—the races are coming in November and the highways for them must be straightened and scraped. After that, the taxpayers may hope to receive some consideration.

If we can't get enough producers to cut down the cost of living, why not try Oslersing a few consumers?

Judge Russell and Prohibition.

Judge Russell, who is again a candidate for governor of Georgia, has arrived at the conclusion that the prohibition law is a failure and therefore he favors its repeal.

It is not stated just exactly at what period of his political cogitations the Judge arrived at this important decision; but it is a safe bet that it was before the law ever came into existence. The masses of those who agree with the Judge were equally as ready as he to arrive at a decision adverse to the law; they said from the beginning that it would be a failure, and are, of course, not chagrined that their prophecies have come true. Their lamentations would have been all the louder had it been more successful.

There are many evasions of the law, it is true, as there are of laws against every other crime, but there is no special reason why it, more than the other violated laws, should be repealed.

In the present campaign it will be profitable to watch the line-up. If the liquor interests of the state do not line up solidly for Judge Russell on his repeal proposition, we shall be surprised.

Can't Kill Thief in Your Chicken House.

Atlanta, Aug. 16.—When Sam Drew of Chattooga county followed Love Dean and shot him to death because Dean stole his horse and was making away with it, he did what he had no right to do, says the Supreme Court in a decision today refusing to grant Drew a new trial following his conviction of homicide. Upon this subject the court says in its opinion:

"It may be stated as a general rule that if a trespass on property amounts to a felony, the killing of the trespasser will be justifiable if necessary to prevent it; but a trespass which amounts to a misdemeanor only will not justify a killing."

This means that the man who shoots down another for robbing his chicken roost or the farmer who kills the thief caught in his melon patch will be subject to trial for murder.

MRS. JOHN W. PITCHFORD, OF ASPEN, N. C.

I will always use Hunt's Cure for itching trouble, and tell all I see about it. I could show you now to know that we are all well of that dreadful trouble. The first of last fall my little boy broke out with some kind of itching trouble. Thinking his blood was bad I gave him a blood tonic, but he got worse, and could not sleep at night. Some said he had itch, and told me what was good for it. I used what people said would cure it, but nothing did any good. My other two children and myself took the disease from him in January, 1911. I saw Hunt's Cure advertised and I purchased a 50c box. It helped my little boy so much I got a box for each of the family, and now we are all well of that awful trouble. Hunt's Cure will cure itch in a short time if you will go by directions. We had it in its worst form, and used Hunt's Cure, and we are now all well.

Honesty Talk

Business World of Today Fosters Dishonesty

By JOHN A. HOWLAND

PERHAPS never before in the history of this country have we had so much conventional talk on the subject of honesty.

As some one has characterized the movement, we seem all at once to have discovered the Ten Commandments. We are preaching honesty almost as if it were a new cure-all just added to the pharmacopoeia.

Not long ago a young friend came to me with a discouraged face and dejected pose. He had lost his place in a great counting house because of the influence of a recent money stringency. At the time he was employed by the house another young man of his own age entered the service. They were of the same age, in the same department, and with this tie of strangeness to the place appealing to them they had become acquainted readily.

My young man I had known from childhood. I knew his sterling worth and was convinced of his capacity and equipment for his work. I was surprised especially when he told me that while he had been "let out" the other young fellow had been retained in the service. I questioned him as to possible reasons for this and I got the true story of the move.

Jones, as I shall call him, was of the shy type, quick, apt and conscientious to a degree. He possessed a shifty diplomacy and tact which, while making him no warm friends, made numerous pleasant acquaintances for him. He was a "good fellow," neither trusted nor distrusted by his associates.

"But both of you were in positions of trust," I said. "Could you make no showing for preference on the score of honesty and dependability?"

"That's the point," exclaimed my young friend. "No, for you see both of us were under bond."

Still further in explanation he showed me how impossible it was in this counting house for the average worker whose honesty might be impeachable to have this honesty recognized by any one as a part of his working capital. There was a time clock at the entrance doors. A superintendent kept a literal eye upon the working force of the office. An auditor checked up the work of every one whose cupidity or carelessness might involve loss to the concern. And above all, the most responsible in any way for money were under bond with a surety company.

The whole tendency of the business world today is toward fostering dishonesty because of its determination not to recognize honesty.

Why in this time, of all others, should we concern ourselves with the worthy preaching of honesty? Has it come to the point that we are lecturing on honesty as a lost virtue, as the critic lectures on the lost art?

Civilization naturally imposes dissimulation and the small hypocrisies. Honesty comes only of training in right thinking and under circumstances which give opportunities for exercising the virtue. Continue to preach honesty to the young man who has been walled in until dishonesty on his part is an impossibility and in another generation he will sneer at the doctrine as he would at a game law to preserve the mastodon!

Kind of Woman That Women Like Best

By DR. GRACE E. CROSS

It would be a difficult task indeed to epitomize in one type the kind of woman that women like. For, not only do the needs of different individuals vary, but a woman's choice of friends changes with the phases of her own development. There are, in woman's nature, two distinct elements, one or the other of which is apt, at some time, to determine the sort of friend she chooses. These are the dependent or immature, and the protective or maternal.

Dependence belongs naturally to youth, though it may exist later in unequal friendships. There is a time in the life of nearly every young girl when she looks up to some older woman teacher or friend with an affection which approaches adoration. Upon her conduct she molds her own; by her sayings she regards as inspired, and from her counsel, if it be beneficent, she will receive, at this plastic period, an untold influence for good. If the girl becomes a self-reliant woman, this experience passes for all time, but there will always be weak sisters who must cling, if not to a man, then to a woman who possesses the useful attributes of the sturdy oak.

The protective or maternal element naturally belongs to a woman's maturer life. It reaches out to what is weaker than herself. To one who needs help she gladly gives herself, and in the giving comes to love the object of her spiritual bounty. Necessary as is this type of friendship to the ethical economy of the race, a danger lurks therein. There are some women in whom the primitive instinct of self-sacrifice has not yet given way to the saner individualism which counts it wrong to submerge one's own personality in the vain effort to live another's life. It is well to aid and support, but it is essential that a strong woman's friendship for a weaker one shall neither eventuate in futile self-sacrifice nor degenerate into a mere satisfaction in flattering dependence of an inferior.

For economy and comfort a man should have at least two weights of business suits and three or better.

One for winter, one for spring, and one Scotch homespun skeleton coat and trousers for the hot season.

Three suits will last four times as long as one suit, and so be a saving of 25 per cent. and give one comfort during each season, which is the main thing.

To be healthy the whole body should be exposed to as much fresh air as possible.

Literature on Labor

BAYARD TAYLOR.
Labor, you know, is prayer.
Toll to some is happiness and rest to others.

BEECHER.
It is not work that kills men; it is worry.
Work, good, honest, is healthy.
Let a broken man cling to his work.
If it saves nothing else it will save him.

WHITTIER.
Thine to work as well as pray.

HOMER.
Labor conquers all things.

ELIZABETH BROWNING.
Get work, the sure it's better than what you work to get.

ADISON.
There is nothing truly valuable which can be purchased without pains and labor.
The gods have set a price upon every real and noble pleasure.

LOWELL.
Blessed are the horny hands of toil.

SCHILLER.
Labor is the ornament of the citizen.
The reward of toil is when you can for blessings upon others.

SCOTT.
Toll is necessary to the enjoyment of leisure.

BULWER-LYTTON.
What men want is not talent, it is purpose; not the powers to achieve, but the will to labor.

Efficiency a Union Ideal

THE fundamental principles underlying the constitution of the united brotherhood of carpenters and joiners of America compel us to recognize that the interests of all classes of labor are identical. We hold it as a sacred principle that trade union men, above all others, should set an example as good and faithful workmen, performing their duty to their employers with honor to themselves and to their organization. The mechanic, of whatever trade he may be, in taking this obligation, feels it his duty to become more skilled, and for the honor of his organization he becomes more industrious and takes a greater interest in his work, knowing that his employer, who has been carefully watching him, will be more willing to meet his reasonable request that his union may make in the form of shorter hours, higher wages or more humane conditions.

I am well aware that the unfair employer holds that nonunion labor is more efficient than union labor, and that his arguments have had some weight in forming public sentiment against us in the past. But the fact still remains that we have the best

Seven Terse Reasons

THE trade union tends to increase the efficiency of labor.

1. Because it is educational. The interchange of ideas and information between the members is an evolutionary force making always for higher intelligence. There they discuss the best methods of doing work and the poorest—of best management and the means of increasing the efficiency of labor.
2. Because it safeguards health. All legislation regarding sanitary conditions and protection to employees due primarily to union effort. All measures tending to protect the health or body of the workers tend to promote efficiency.
3. Because it is opposed to the substitution of female or child labor for adult male labor. This not only makes for efficiency in the present but tends to promote the efficiency of the coming generations by keeping the work of the home and the children in the schools, where they belong.
4. Because it stands for living wages. A worker who does not earn enough to maintain his strength is more likely to be inefficient. A worker who is misused and who becomes more and more dissatisfied with his job, takes less interest in his work and becomes more and more inefficient. A man will generally do the right thing

CHILD'S HEAD
A MASS OF HUMOR

"I think the Cuticura remedies are the best remedy for eczema I have ever heard of. My mother had a child who had a rash on its head when it was real young. Doctor called it baby rash. He gave me medicine, but it did no good. In a few days the head was a solid mass, a running sore. It was awful; the child cried continually. We had to hold him and watch him keep him from scratching the sore. His suffering was dreadful. At last we remembered Cuticura Remedies. We got a dollar bottle of Cuticura Resolvent, a box of Cuticura Ointment, and a bar of Cuticura Soap. We gave the Resolvent as directed, washed the head with the Cuticura Soap, and applied the Cuticura Ointment. We had not used half before the child's head was clear and free from eczema, and it has never come back again. His mother said it was the best thing she had ever seen. I think the Cuticura Ointment very good for the hair. It makes the hair grow and prevents dandruff hair." (Signed) Mrs. Francis Land, Plain City, Utah, Sept. 19, 1910.

Although Cuticura Soap and Ointment are sold everywhere, a sample of each, with 35-page booklet, will be mailed free on application to "Cuticura," Dept. 12, Boston.

Deaths Due to Dust.
A warning against the dangers of dust was issued recently by the National Association for the Study and Prevention of Tuberculosis, in which it is shown that the percentage of deaths caused by tuberculosis in dusty trades is more than double that for all employed men in the registration area of the United States. While among males generally in the registration area of the United States 14.5 per cent of all deaths are from consumption, among men employed in dusty trades from this disease is 49.2 per cent, and in hardly any of the dusty trades is it below 25 per cent. The percentage of deaths from tuberculosis among those exposed to metallic dust is 38.9 per cent; to mineral dust, 28.5 per cent; to vegetable dust, 28.8 per cent; to mixed animal and other forms of dust, 25.1 per cent; to street dust, 25.5 per cent, and to organic, or dust coming from the article being manufactured, 23 per cent.

The Brute.
"Men are such rude things," said the supercilious girl.

"Has any of them dared to address you without an introduction?"

"No; but in a crowd one got his face all mixed up with my hatpin and never even said 'excuse me'."

Heard in St. Louis.
"Let's drop in this restaurant."

"Oh, I don't believe I care to eat anything."

"Well, come in and get a new hat for your old one, anyway."

Many a man doesn't realize that he married an angel until she begins to do the harp act.

The little baron Bliny, who is now eight years old, created no end of delighted approbation recently by getting his hands soiled and washing them as any ordinary child would do.

Lady Elfrida Montmorency has a decided penchant for carrying an umbrella when out in the rain.

Prince Gwilym, of Wales, is an enthusiastic amateur collector of snapshots. He is the latest and best curator of the art gallery in recognition of his talents.

Putting it Wrong. Perhaps.

"O, yes," said the bewitching maiden, "I have often tried to cook, but, do you know, it seems impossible for me to eat anything I prepare. I suppose it is caused by the worry of working over the range."

"Yes," answered the foolish man, "but, you know, it takes a woman a long time to learn how to cook anything she, or anybody else, can eat."

It Worried Him.
"Yes," said the first doctor, "I have a case up on Blinker street that is causing me a great deal of worry."

"Indeed?" asked the second doctor. "Are you wondering whether or not the patient will get well?"

"Not so much that as I am puzzled over whether or not he will pay my bill."

Haughty Thing.
"What do you think of Miss Starfish?" asked the lobbyist.

"Not so very much," answered the coxswain, "she is too big to be a lobbyist and she called me a lobster."

"And when I proposed to her she shut me up like an oyster."

No Hope.
"But, papa, I would be content to live on a crust with Harold."

"On a crust? Hah! Harold couldn't raise the dough."

Particularly the Ladies.
Not only pleasant and refreshing to the taste, but gently cleansing and sweetening to the system, Syrup of Figs and Elixir of Senna is particularly adapted to ladies and children, and beneficial in all cases in which a wholesome, strengthening and effective laxative should be used. It is perfectly safe at all times and dispels colds, headaches and the pains caused by indigestion and constipation so promptly and effectively that it is the one perfect family laxative which gives satisfaction to all and is recommended by millions of families who have used it, and who have personal knowledge of its excellence.

Its wonderful popularity, however, has led unscrupulous dealers to offer imitations which act unsatisfactorily. Therefore, when buying, to get the beneficial effects, always note the full name of the company—California Fig Syrup Co.—plainly printed on the front of every package of the genuine Syrup of Figs and Elixir of Senna.

For sale by all leading druggists. Price 50 cents per bottle.

GOVERNOR SMITH VEToes MANY BILLS

Chief Executive Kills the Western and Atlantic Railway Commission Bill, Editors' Free Pass Bill and Other Measures.

—Atlanta.

The game bill of 1911 will be a law of the state of Georgia, from destroying nests and young birds, and it keeps them from dynamiting a stream or lake for a fish. And, lastly, the act provides a penalty for the game warden who does not enforce the provisions of this law.

Appropriation Bill Passed.

The general appropriations bill, governing the expenditure of over eleven million dollars during the years 1912-13, was signed by Gov. Hoke Smith, though, in a statement, he declared that he was submitting the bill to the legislature would exceed the total revenue of the state by approximately three hundred thousand dollars unless the revenues of Georgia are increased.

According to the governor, the state will not pay any of the $100,000 increase to public schools next year, but provision for this will probably be made by the next session of the general assembly. It is not improbable that the governor will allow the special appropriations, which involves the payment of the bill in any wise cut into the surplus necessary to meet the obligatory items of the general measure.

In signing the general appropriation bill the governor felt that sufficient funds would be provided to cover expenditures during the year 1912, but he expects the legislature next summer to either reappropriate the 1912 appropriation or to increase the revenue of the state.

W. & A. Bill Vetoes.

Governor Smith did not veto the Western and Atlantic lease commission bill, and the bill creating a state auditor because he was opposed to either idea.

The governor is in favor of a permanent Western and Atlantic lease commission, and is in favor of having a state auditor. He killed the bill because he believed the bill would be a permanent fixture in the legislature and he believed the bill would be a permanent fixture in the legislature.

RENEWED INTEREST IN LIFE THOUGHT MADE HIM WORRY

Recent Subject of Surgical Operation Victim of a Sudden and Horrible Thought.

"The late Dr. George W. Bailey of New York," said a Presbyterian divine, "was thoroughly modern in his methods, but he did think that some of our surgeons went too far."

Dr. Bailey, apologist of certain reckless abuses of the knife, used to tell a story of an appendicitis club.

"At a meeting of this club a pallid member said: 'Well, friends, I had to be re-opened last week. My doctor had left a sponge inside me.'"

"I was re-opened, too," said a gruff man. "I was re-opened just ten days ago. Prof. Cutler had forgotten to remove a pair of forceps."

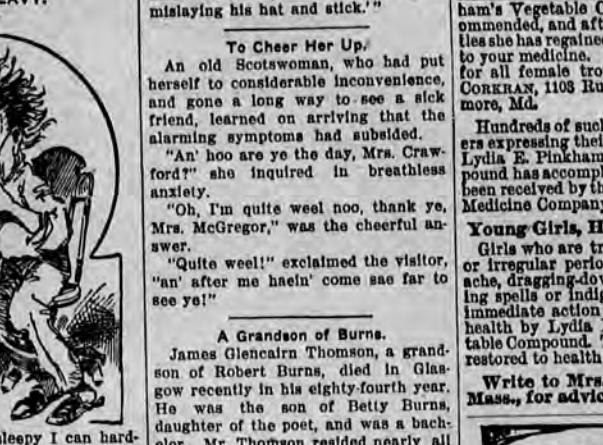

"At this a nervous-looking chap groaned, jumped up, and made for the door."

"What's the matter?" they asked him. "There are you off to in such a rush?"

"I'm off to my doctor's," the man replied. "I remember now that, just after a meeting of this club, I was told that my doctor had left a sponge inside me."

"What's the matter?" they asked him. "There are you off to in such a rush?"

"I'm off to my doctor's," the man replied. "I remember now that, just after a meeting of this club, I was told that my doctor had left a sponge inside me."

TO CHEER HER UP.
An old Scotsman, who had put herself in considerable inconvenience, and gone a long way to see a sick friend, learned on arriving that the alarming symptoms had subsided. "At this a nervous-looking chap groaned, jumped up, and made for the door."

"What's the matter?" they asked him. "There are you off to in such a rush?"

"I'm off to my doctor's," the man replied. "I remember now that, just after a meeting of this club, I was told that my doctor had left a sponge inside me."

"What's the matter?" they asked him. "There are you off to in such a rush?"

Naughty, but Nice.
Edith, who is eight years old, was invited to a children's party. Her blonde hair was perfectly straight, but, becomingly arranged, and she started off in high feather.

But on her return she was rather silent, and on being questioned as to her experience, said:

"I had a nice time, but it would have been nicer if my hair was kinky. All the other girls' hair was kinky, and I should go to another party unless my hair is fixed in kinky."

So the next week, when another invitation came for the little girl, her hair was curled and fluffed out in the most approved style.

Then her mother led her to a mirror, and said: "There, Edith, what do you think of it?"

Edith regarded herself soberly for a moment, and then, turning slowly around, she said: "It's vain, but I like it."

Not Impressed.
Mme Nordica at a garden party at Deal Beach, said apropos of her recent European tour:

"Many good people refer to me as 'the armless and legless fragments of antique sculpture' in the museums of the old world."

"One day in the British museum a guide was recounting to a little knot of tourists the glories of a battered centaur, when a Chicago met salesman broke the reverent hush with the question:

"These men, sir, but what would they feed a bloke like that on—ham and eggs or hay?"

Strong Healthy Women

If a woman is strong and healthy in a womanly way, motherhood means to her but little suffering. The trouble lies in the fact that many women suffer from weakness and nervousness, and are unable to perform their duties as mothers. This can be remedied.

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription

Cures the weaknesses and disorders of women. It sets directly on the delicate and important organs connected with motherhood, making them healthy, strong, vigorous, virile and elastic.

"Favorite Prescription" banishes the indispositions of the period of expectancy and makes baby's advent easy and pleasant. It quickens and vitalizes the feminine organs, and insures a healthy and robust baby. Thousands of women have testified to its marvelous merits.

It makes Sick Women Well. Honest druggists do not offer substitutes, and urge them upon you as "just as good." Accept no secret nostrum in place of this well-known remedy. It is a pure glyceric extract of healing, native American roots.

Rare Bargains in Merchandise

I am not going out of business, and have no old and shop-worn goods to work off, but for the reasons herewith given I am in position to offer to the people of this community some bargains that have never been equalled heretofore.

More than eighteen months ago—long before the advance in all lines of merchandise—I contracted for an immense stock of Dry Goods, Clothing, Shoes and Furniture.

These goods are now arriving and are being opened up. They are new and up-to-date, and especially selected for the needs of our people.

If you are at all interested in saving your dollars, you will find it worth your while to investigate this opportunity.

Not only have I bought this stock at much lower prices than such goods can be bought at now, but for many other reasons I am able to undersell competition. I live outside of any incorporated town, and therefore have no municipal taxes to pay; have no water and light bills; no rent, as I own my own building; and, lastly, I do my own work and give my customers the benefit of the saving. Sooner or later you will find it to your advantage to buy from me—better now than later.

I would also add a reminder that I operate one of the most up-to-date ginneries to be found in this community. I guarantee my work to be of the very highest class, and solicit your work at $1.50 per 500-lb bale.

COFFIN IN THE COTTON PATCH

CITIZENS MAKE STATEMENT IN REGARD TO ITS PROBABLE ORIGIN.

In our issue of last week mention was made of the finding of a coffin in the cotton field of Newt Clay, in the vicinity of Brooklet, a few days previous. It was explained that Clay had been a witness in a case against a number of white men for whipping another negro, Tom Gladman, and that he had received a threatening letter before court warning him not to testify. This statement was made that the mystery of the coffin was probably connected in some way with the other case referred to. This much by way of explanation.

On the date of our publication a delegation of citizens presented to the TIMES, with request that it be given space, the communication following, which was addressed to another paper. These gentlemen make a clear presentation of their connection with the Clay incident, and their statement will be read with interest. It follows:

"In an article of the 13th, under the head of 'Coffin Found in Cotton Patch,' you referred to former trouble with the whites and a negro on Mr. George W. Simmons' place. 'Yes, that is true; now is it not time to resist?' On the night of the 22d of March, 1911, J. J. Womack was away from home, and on returning about 10 o'clock, after the family had retired for the night, as he walked in he found that some unknown person was in the house. He halted them two or three times, and they got out and made their escape. So things passed on until Sunday night,

April 2d, when some unknown person went into D. M. Bunce's smoke house and took some bacon, and the tracks showed it to be the same track that went out of Womack's yard; and upon a close examination it was found to be the track of Tom Gladman, a negro staying with Newt Clay, on Geo. W. Simmons' place. So the negro did get a thrashing, and so did George Simmons swear out warrants for the whole neighborhood and had men arrested that had nothing to do with the thrashing of the negro.

"As to the coffin being put in Newt Clay's field, we know nothing of its existence. It is believed from reports that he did the work himself, for just a few years ago he held a society called the Good Samaritans, and he kept a coffin in his possession, the purpose unknown to us. The society mentioned is better known by the name of the 'Fore Day Club.'"

"As to the letter referred to, we know nothing of it nor its origin, and as to the threats of Newt Clay we have never made any except we did threaten to prosecute him for running and selling moonshine liquor in our neighborhood. We are opposed to negroes stealing our meat and going in our houses after our families have done their day's work, and the next one that lets us catch him at any such we will give George another case to prosecute, and there will be no need of looking up a negro several weeks for evidence to convict the whole neighborhood."

"We were only trying to protect our homes, and we will be trying next time. We have done nothing that we are ashamed of; if it is wrong to protect our families from the good samaritans or 'Fore Day

Georgians Should Arouse To Their Best Interests.

Why shall we people sit on the throne of independence and have it pulled from under us? We are lying still and allowing our rights to slip away. We, the possessors of Georgia, are on the throne of independence and sitting still to let Mr. Foreigner do just what he will to do with our public interest.

Why do our fathers not educate their children and let Georgia boys take care of their own old state instead of having our statesmen imported as has been our plan for so long?

Some parents say, "Well, I am doing all I can to educate my children; I send them to school every term." Well, that is good so far as it goes, but you don't teach them to work and to take the responsibilities of life for themselves. You fail to teach them the necessity of usefulness.

As soon as the boy gets large enough to ride a bicycle, he must have one and go over to see his chum about some trifling little plan of their's, as trading knives or sling shots, popguns or something of the kind. Next he must have a baseball outfit and join a team to pull on toward torment; then he must have a gun to put in his pocket and talk big and do little; then a pack of cards, and he is doing well until school opens again. Then each boy will spend some time telling of how many tricks he has played on the old man during vacation. This is the style of the average boy today; and our girls as a majority are no better. As soon as school is out, she must have a good time, for poor Mary or Jane, as the case may be, has had no rest from school in five months. She must go to visit a dudish friend for a few months, and while she learns to attend frolics and dances, and worst of all, she learns how to entertain company with a deck of cards which are kept in the parlor for that purpose. When she returns home post cards, letters, invitations, acceptance of invitations, parlor suits and some nasty-minded, clean-clothed lad is all she knows to think of, and when mother asks her to do a piece of work she says, "Oh, mamma, get the wash-erwoman to do that; I have a date to go to an entertainment tonight, and it will take me my time to get ready and dress." "Well, go on, darling, I will help you fasten your dress when you get ready." As long as fathers and mothers bring their boys and girls up in this way we need not expect to make useful men of our boys; neither will our girls be the wives of useful men of honest and noble character.

Let's think of these things and begin to guard against them, and make out of life that which our Creator gave life to us for, which is to engage ourselves in the useful things of life—to do something for our fellow-man as well as ourselves. Boys, wake up, wake up, and get to work and do it; get discouraged and sit down and say, "I can live easy and not study so hard." Keep on pulling and you will rest easy when you have done some good work and have it to think back over. Come on and pull by the main cord, boys, pull and you will receive your reward. E. PATTERSON.

COTTON YEAR ENDING SHOWS INCREASED RECEIPTS

Savannah, Ga., August 31.—The cotton year which comes to an end today has been a very good one for the port of Savannah. The receipts have been nearly 100,000 bales in excess of last season and the price has been well maintained. The total receipts for the season have been almost 1,500,000 bales against 1,372,000 bales for last season. The prices paid for the staple during the season ending today have been in advance of those paid for it during the year before and good middling was quoted today on the floor of the Savannah cotton exchange at more than 11 cents a pound. The season goes out with the daily receipts very encouraging, showing that the coming season is to be an active one. The receipts today were something like 3,500 bales and they have been keeping up at this rate for the past several days. They are greatly in excess of the receipts for about the same time last year. Savannah cotton factors and exporters do not believe that the effort to have farmers hold their cotton for 13 cents a pound will prove successful. There are so many planters who have to sell their product early in the season in order to meet their obligations that it is going to be hard to bring about a universal movement to hold the staple. The big cotton shipping season is now fairly on and today the first big cotton ship loaded with the new staple is prepared to go to sea.

Prohibition Leaders Will Support Pope Brown.

Atlanta, Sept. 4.—The prohibition leaders of Georgia, in politics and out of politics, are beginning to line up openly behind J. Pope Brown in his race for governor, and, it is believed, will probably formally endorse him as the prohibition leader.

While Mr. Brown did not raise the prohibition question in announcing his platform, and admitted his regret that his opponent in the race had forced the issue, he none the less took his stand boldly and flat-footedly for prohibition when the issue was raised and is standing by his guns. Mr. Brown has had the good will of the prohibitionists from the beginning, but it was not until it began to be apparent that the liquor interests were marshalling themselves behind Judge R. B. Russell, the other candidate, that they realized they would have to make an organized fight for their principles. Immediately on concluding that they would have to be active in the coming campaign, the prohibition leaders decided to fall in behind Pope Brown as their champion, and they expressed a sincere confidence that he will lead them to victory. The issue is practically admitted now to be the paramount one of the campaign, even by those who believed two weeks ago that it could not possibly become so.

A Great Advantage to Working Men.
J. A. Maple, 125 S. 7th street, Steubenville, O., says: "For years I suffered from weak kidneys and a severe bladder trouble. I learned of Foley Kidney Pills and their wonderful cures, so I began taking them and sure enough I had as good results as any I heard about. My backache left me and to one of my business, expressman, that alone is a great advantage. My kidneys acted free and normal, and that saved me a lot of misery. It is now a pleasure to work where it used to be a misery. Foley Kidney Pills have cured me and have my highest praise." Sold by Lively's Drug Store.

Utopian Virginia Town Will Abolish Police.

Norfolk, Va., Aug. 27.—Utopia seems at last to have been found in a Virginia summer resort at Virginia Beach. The town council has sounded the virtue of the community and finding nothing to condemn, has voted unanimously to abolish the police department on September 1st. But town Sgt. A. F. Dozier, Virginia Beach's police force, does not relinquish his badge without protest. He points to the fact that the present Utopian conditions are the direct result of his administration and that it was through his efforts that Sunday whisky selling and many forms of gambling disappeared from the beach. The town council does not share his view that eternal vigilance is necessary to retain these conditions and has ruthlessly abolished his position.

ADVISED TO HOLD COTTON FOR THIRTEEN CENTS.

CROP IS SHORT, AND EVEN 15 CENTS IS NOT UNREASONABLE PRICE.
Another body blow is dealt the bear element now trying to depress in advance the price of cotton, in a statement given out by the Southern Ruralist published in Atlanta.

Through its corps of correspondents, covering the entire field, the Ruralist has just made up a report, the substance of which is that there will be neither a bumper nor an abnormally small crop, and that prices should range between 13 and 15 cents, certainly not below the former figures.

The Ruralist summarizes conditions as follows: "August 1st the cotton crop bid fair to be one of the best in history, but even then the probable yield was very greatly overestimated because of the lack of fruit in proportion to the development of the weed. The first week in August a severe general drought set in over practically the entire cotton belt.

"The market continued depressed by early reports, and it became most important that the men with cotton to sell be informed of the real condition of the crop. This information the Southern Ruralist determined to secure. We selected 154 expert cotton growers with whom we were personally acquainted and in whose judgment we had a full confidence. To each we sent a personal request for a report on the condition of the crop in his locality on August 20th. Each of the eight chief cotton states was covered. Here are the average results of the reports thus secured based on the general ten-year average: North Carolina, 56; South Carolina, 63; Georgia, 88; Alabama, 73; Mississippi, 78; Louisiana, 81; Texas, 59; general average, 69.8.

"The most serious falling off is reported from Texas, where the opinion is general that the probable yield has shrunk one-third since the July report. In no state is this loss estimated at less than 20 per cent. These reports are from men in the field every day. Every experienced cotton grower by the middle of August has a definite idea as to the number of bales he expects to make. He will seldom miss his estimate more than one bale per grower. Men who a month ago were counting on 12 bales are now seldom expecting over 9 bales per grower. This opinion is general. It is the business judgment of the most expert crop estimators in the world. It is this kind of opinion on which our report is based. The result does not indicate an extremely short crop. It precludes the possibility of a bumper crop. It indicates a probable yield of not over 12,000,000 bales.

"This should be a 15 cent crop. Not a bale should be sold below 15 cents. Slow marketing will surely enable every grower to realize this minimum price."

FROM BLOW ON HEAD GIRL LOSES MEMORY.

ATLANTA YOUNG LADY DOES NOT RECOGNIZE FORMER SWEETHEART.
Atlanta, Sept. 3.—From the daze of a fall several weeks ago, Miss Ruby Jester, the daughter of R. C. Jester, who used to have a large tailoring shop here, has awakened in Los Angeles, Cal., with her memory a blank concerning everything that has happened since she left Atlanta.

She fell in the Tourine apartments just a few days before she was to have been married to Sigurd Russell, a stepson of Richard Russell, the poet. Now she doesn't recognize him. Physicians have not permitted her to be told of her lapse of memory, but Sigurd Russell was casually brought into her presence as soon as she had got over the first effects of the fall. She greeted him as a complete stranger, though if it hadn't been for her accident they would now be man and wife.

The doctors say they aren't sure she ever will know him. Only time can fill up the break in her memory and bring her back to her fiancé who now is a stranger to her.

Judge Parker Will Not Be Candidate for Governor
Waycross, Ga., August 31.—Despite the assertions of numerous friends, Judge T. A. Parker declines to allow his name to be used in connection with the gubernatorial race. Judge Parker says he has a position of honor that the people of this section have given him, and he intends trying to fill same and not seek other positions.

"However," said Judge Parker today, "I will endeavor to do all I can for the prohibition cause. We cannot afford to take any backward steps in this cause. I am disgusted with so much palaver about prohibition being a failure and the prohibition law being one that cannot be enforced. I am aware of the fact that there are communities in the state where no attempt is made to enforce the law. There are, however, many communities in our state where the law is enforced as well perhaps as many of the other penal statutes. I know of no law that absolutely prohibits crime."

NEW GUN INVENTED FOR USE AGAINST AIRSHIPS.

Washington, Aug. 31.—A new six-pounder gun, equipped with specially adapted high explosive projectiles and shrapnel shells to demolish aeroplanes and balloons in battle, has been perfected by the United States army. It can be elevated at an angle and possesses a maximum effective range of seven miles. The construction of the new rifle has just been completed at the Rock Island Illinois arsenal. Experiments with it will begin at the Sandy Hook proving grounds within a fortnight.

The army thus far is in advance of the navy in the solution of the problem of defense against airships. The navy only a few days ago conducted its first tests with the carriage of a one-pounder gun. The shells which this army gun will hurl into the skies will be loaded with dynamite or other high explosives, and upon bursting will send forth a shower of shot in a cone-like area similar to the performance of a skyrocket, almost certain to strike an airship if aimed with any degree of accuracy. Other projectiles which have been designed for the new gun contain only a high explosive which upon exploding would wreck any airship in its vicinity.
